The Online Olympics at DozenSports.com

Vancouver 2010 is revolutionizing sports coverage on the web. So, check out the online champs and the chumps at sports index DozenSports.com...

As the city of Vancouver hosts the 2010 Winter Olympic Games, more people from around the world than ever before are using the internet as their main source of coverage. But with so many online sports sites offering Olympic coverage, it can feel like an uphill or downhill struggle to find the sites worthy of a gold medal.

Yet, DozenSports.com – Google's top-ranked sports index – has graded the online sports world, meaning you can stop searching and start finding the best Olympic sites. Following the success of the Beijing Summer Games site in 2008, NBCOlympics.com has done it again and created one of the most comprehensive Olympic portals offering sports news, chat, videos, photos, results, shopping and tweets at <http://twitter.com/nbcolympics>. If all that wasn't enough, NBC has also teamed-up with iPhone and iStore to provide an amazing Olympic app, so you can keep up to date with the action while on the move.

In other news, Dozen's top sports betting site Sportsbook.com is recommended as the one of the best places to place a bet on the games, but it is closely followed by Bodog.com. In terms of online campaigns, it is difficult to beat Visa's Go World site (www.visa.com/goworld) which features the spectacular TV ads with the voice of Hollywood star Morgan Freeman. But Coca Cola have also created a special mobile site for the games at <http://m.cokeopengames.com>, where users can collect special coke cans and bottles as well as read about the top winter sports athletes.

Special mention also has to be given to Sega's mega site Olympicvideogames.com, where you can get a taste of Sonic & Mario at the Winter Olympics and play a mini-version of the official Vancouver 2010 videogame from EA Sports.

"The Winter Olympics is always a great spectator event. But this year, with new developments in online HD video, real-time internet, widgets, plug-ins, social networks and micro-blogging, the 2010 Olympics represents a new level of online sports coverage. We at DozenSports.com, which is now the top ranked sports index in Google, are aware of these breakthroughs and are quite simply bringing you the stories behind the clicks as the Winter Olympics unfolds."
